WELCOME MESSAGE

On behalf of Informa Markets in India (Formerly UBM India), I am happy to welcome you to the 27th edition of SATTE, South Asia's Travel and Tourism exchange at the India Expo Mart, Greater Noida, Delhi – NCR.

India offers geographical diversity and has a diverse portfolio of niche tourism products, cruise adventures, eco-tourism and rural & religious tourism bringing a multitude of foreign tourists to the country. Our domestic, inbound and outbound tourism have been recording a substantial growth in the last few years. Growing at a rapid pace, in 2018, the travel and tourism sector's contribution to GDP was INR 16.91 lakh crore ($240 billion) and is predicted to grow at an annual rate of 6.9% to INR 32.05 lakh crore by 2028. The government of India has also introduced a Tax Refund for Tourists (TRT) to encourage tourists to spend more in India and boost the country's tourism.

The government has also launched marketing and branding initiatives while also taking the efforts to boost investment in the tourism sector. The Incredible India 2.0 campaign saw the launch of its mobile app that would assist a traveller in India and showcase the experiences of travelling in the country. With such incredible growth in the sector, SATTE has been extremely important for all those associated with the travel & tourism and hospitality industry. In fact, the trend of destination weddings has been well captured by our exhibitors this year and thus SATTE 2020, is a holistic expo that maps and analyses such trends along with forecasting developments in the sectors and providing viable solutions to help business thrive in the ever-evolving industry.

With an exciting line-up of conferences, SATTE 2020 will host a series of sessions and workshops, presented and lead by high profile speakers and industry stalwarts, covering topics from all aspects of the industry. Informa Markets in India will also be hosting the 4th Edition of the SATTE Awards powered by T3, to recognize and celebrate the excellence, triumphs and innovations of key stakeholders in the Travel and Tourism industry which is based on genuine and authentic parameters, innovation and excellence in the travel and tourism industry, a philosophy well imbibed in the values of SATTE.

I take this opportunity to thank you all for your contribution towards this show. Special thanks to World Tourism Organisation (UNWTO), Indian Association of Tour Operators (IATO), Travel Agents Association of India (TAAI), Association of Domestic Tour Operators of India (ADTOI), Travel Agents Federation of India (TAFI), IATA Agents Association of India (IAAI), India Convention Promotion Bureau (ICPB), Universal Federation of Travel Agents Association (UFTAA), Pacific Asia Travel Association (PATA) and Enterprising Travel Agents Association (ETAA) to name a few who have helped bolster the efforts of SATTE.

MESSAGE FROM IATO

Pronab Sarkar
President, IATO

Season's greetings from IATO and wish you a purposeful 2020.

Flowing on the initiative of the Ministry of Tourism, Government of India to augment international tourist arrivals to our country, SATTE, since inception, has given the industry players a sizable opportunity and a strategic platform to interact with their trade associates from across the world and India, exchange ideas on target product, services and emerging market profile. The B2B platform thus offers the much needed networking ground catering to your business sensitivities.

The Foreign Tour Operators who adorn SATTE with their one to one meetings with Indian Stakeholders and ensuing FAMs will engage in marketing India across the world viewing the catchment areas of new products, unexplored destinations and unique offerings so that they in turn can send tourists to India. Your presence, talks with them and being a discerning audience at SATTE seminars will open up a canvas of commercial activity that you can venture in.

With National Tourist Offices (NTOs) and the countries from across the globe participating in SATTE, the exhibition also offers a fertile ground for Outbound Tour Operators to know the product offerings & tourism innovations that the exhibiting countries seek to bring on the table during the B2B meetings with the Outbound Tour Operators from India

SATTE rediscovers itself and moves ahead with new vigor & facets in each of its editions and its time you capitalize on this platform like all the previous years and make it count from 8-10 January 2020, at India Expo Mart, Greater Noida, Delhi NCR.

On behalf of IATO I wish those associated with SATTE the very best . IATO extends its support to SATTE 2020 and looks forward to its roaring success yet once again.

MESSAGES FROM TAAI

Jyoti Mayal
President, TAAI

Over the years, SATTE has evolved as one of the most eagerly looked forward events. I keep getting communication from across the world from those I am connected with that they are either exhibitors or buyers travelling to SATTE. We have had a very long association with SATTE and the show has been a very efficient networking platform and helps to promote the industry better.

Over the years, SATTE has done commendably well and we at TAAI are truly delighted to continue our strong connect with SATTE.

The event has today become an opportunity for the Destinations and State tourism to increase their visibility in the India market. Equally important are the opportunities offered to the hosted buyers who come to SATTE with a clear goal of establishing newer partnerships and learning from the various exhibitors.

This is truly a great contribution from SATTE.

We wish you all success and congratulation in advance for another successful year.

MESSAGE FROM TOFTIGERS

Chairman, TOFTigers

30th December 2019

We are delighted to be the official Sustainability Partner to SATTE 2020, highlighting the very real and critical importance of sustainability to the future of all our myriad destinations, travel businesses and travel operations across the globe, especially those showcased at SATTE 2020.

As highlighted by all the recent scientific evidence on climate change, environmental degradation, habitat loss and wildlife collapse, the travel sector has to move from a past reactive approach to a highly proactive approach if we are to confront the issues within the timescale of the next ten years as laid out by the scientific evidence. The alternative to not working together on this is not one anyone wants to confront.

SATTE 2020 is taking the issues seriously and we applaud them for this, and TOFTigers, with its many sustainability tools, look forward to offering ways in which we can help South Asia drive the necessary change needed from their Governments, from the travel industry and from visitors in the coming years.

A LAND OF CONTRASTS

Some countries are known for their beaches, others their mountains, their jungles, deserts or big cities. India embraces all of these and the tourism industry is well equipped to provide experiences to match

Words | World Show Media staff

Just as there is no one India, there is no one tour that will satisfy the needs of visitors who arrive in their millions each year united in their quest to find the ultimate experience.

Culturally, geographically and socially, India means many things to many people, each hoping to leave with memories that will live on long after they have departed.

Anyone who has seen the sunrise from a boat on the Ganges at Varanasi, heard the street calls of the chai wallahs or watched the Banjara women of Telangana perform a Lambadi dance or even mingled with dark-eyed pilgrims at the Pushkar camel fair will recognise that.

It's a place of contrasts, alive with deserts, jungles and fertile valleys and as disparate as the frosty wastes of the northern mountains and the nodding palms of the tropical south. It's one in which the gentle pace of rural villages and verdant backwaters contrast sharply with the blistering pace of big cities full of teeming markets and world-famous monuments.

In other words, it's a country tailor-made for the sort of specialist tours designed to get visitors up close and personal with every aspect of life. And there's no shortage of options to feed this demand.

The Ministry of Tourism regulates all operators with a scheme backed by a classification committee which looks at them with the same rigour it does travel agents and hotels. It is a voluntary scheme backed by all bona fide agencies.

It defines tour operators in two ways. An Adventure Tour Operator is one engaged in activities such as water sports, aero sports, mountaineering, trekking and safaris. It also recognises that these organisations are often also responsible for things like transport and accommodation.

A domestic tour operator is one which makes arrangements for transport, accommodation, sight-seeing, entertainment and other tourism-related services for home-based tourists. Operators can apply online for E-recognition. So far, 160 domestic operators and 60 classed as Adventure Tour Operators have been approved. The largest group overall are the inbound tour operators with almost half at 552. Travel agents account for 235 and Tourist Travel Operators 130.

It also promotes a code of 'Safe and Honourable Tourism' which aims to strengthen the critical pillar of 'Suraksha' (Safety) and ensure that Indian tourism follows international standards that apply to both tourists and local communities who may be affected in some way. Its central objective is always to ensure that all tourism activities integrate the need to protect the dignity, safety and the right to freedom from exploitation of all tourists and local residents who are involved in or impacted by the industry.

Its manifesto sets it out in detail: "In today's scenario, following safety guidelines is not just about adhering to the provisions of the seven pillars but also implies good Views may be divided when it comes to naming the country's top destinations. But when it comes to the young, they're clear where their priorities lie.

business," it states. "As the demand from travellers for safe and secure tourism services increases, this code will assist signatories to build capacities among their service chains and personnel so as to be able to respond to this demand."

It is recognised within the industry that, while most tourist destinations are easily accessible, there are some that are hard, and sometimes dangerous, to reach.

That may be because of dangerous roads or tough terrains, even though for some, getting to them is often seen as an adventure in itself and well worth all the trouble and risks involved.

Tirthan Valley in Himachal Pradesh, for example, has many roads that twist and turn every few kilometres before leading you to an area hard to chart and where mobile signals cease to exist.

And nearby Spiti Valley, 12,500 feet above sea level and one of the coldest places in the country, enjoys only 250 days of sunshine throughout the year and is accessible only via a 412 km-long road literally carved out of rocks.

Thankfully, most tours tend to concentrate on themes designed for the experience rather body, mind and soul in a land of holy sages and spiritual gurus in areas such as the holy Ganges River and the many deities of the Hindu faith.

Among the many places linked to the founder of Buddhism, few rival the pilgrimage site of Lumbini in the Rupandehi District of Nepal.

It is most famous for being the place where Queen Mahamayadevi gave birth to Siddhartha Gautama who, having achieved Enlightenment, went on to become the Buddha and founded Buddhism. Another pilgrimage spot is Sarnath where he delivered his first sermon.

For Sikhs, the main attractions are Amritsar's Golden Temple and revered shrines such as Hemkund Sahib. Many pilgrims climb to pray at the world's Highest Gurudwara from Govind Dham. Many visit Anandpur Sahib, the meditation spot for the Sikh Gurus while Christians prefer the churches of Goa.

WHY HERITAGE?

Palaces, forts, medieval temples, rock-cut caves, the grandeur and trappings of emperors and Maharaja; the legacy is rich and widely spread, each corner of this diverse land having its own unique cultural legacy. Apart from the unique experiences offered by heritage hotels and museums, the country boasts some of the greatest monuments ever made, all of which individually mark the presence of the great kingdoms of the day and the influences of the

than the adventure of getting there. Here we list a few examples and speculate as to the reasons for their continued popularity.

SO, WHY SPIRITUAL?

For one thing, The country is the birthplace of many religions and spiritual leaders and provides the backdrop for countless pilgrimages for those wanting to cleanse the Mughal dynasty, the Rajputana Empire and the Dravidians.

Thirty-four properties in India are inscribed on the World Heritage List. Twenty seven of them are classified as cultural sites, seven are classified as natural and one is mixed. Such monuments, built over 3,000 years, from Humayun's tomb to Charminar in Lucknow and

The Konark Sun Temple, tell many stories of greatness and provide fascinating glimpses of cultures and civilisations key to Indian legacy.

WHY PHOTOGRAPHY?

Apart from the Taj Mahal and countless monuments, the abundance of national parks and wildlife sanctuaries which are home to Bengal and White Tigers, make it an obvious choice.

But deeper layers reveal the natural wonders such as picturesque hill resorts, breath-taking backwaters and desert dunes behind the forts and palaces. Many tour companies are equipped to take visitors to the remotest of areas and mingle with tribal communities happy to co-operate.

WHY TIGERS?

For one thing, it's home to almost 3,000 of them, around 70 per cent of the world's population, and by far the best place to see them in the wild.

In fact, India is one of the best places in the world for lovers of all sorts of wildlife, with its 733 Protected Areas and 103 national parks, such as Nagarhole, around an hour's drive from Mysore, a vast, densely forested and hilly park in the shadows of the Western Ghats.

An estimated 100 Bengal tigers live there alongside leopards and hyenas, as well as other species such as Asian elephants, Samba deer and Langur monkeys.

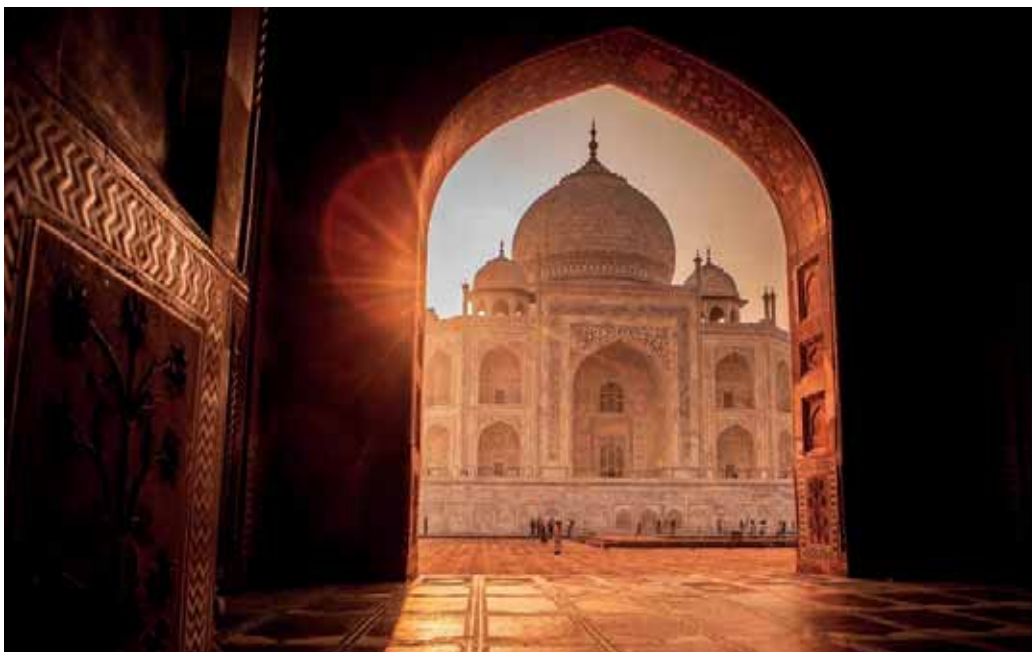

Then there's Ranthambore National Park, in Rajasthan state, once the hunting ground of the Maharajas of Jaipur, but now a place where wildlife enjoys protected status. Unsurprisingly, many Golden Triangle tours now include many areas in its 150 square miles in their itineraries.

And in Bardia National Park, which forms part of Nepal's tiger conservation unit with the neighbouring Banke National Park, a 2016 study estimated that, among the 56 that live there, there were a number of cubs and younger breeding tigers, which was hopeful in population terms.

Quite a few tour operators leverage the diversity to good effect and recognise the value of tailoring itineraries to customer needs. India Odyssey Tours, for example a sub-brand of OdyNovo advises customers: "Tell us your trip ideas, and we'll help tailor a mountaineering and trekking in the states of Jammu and Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand and Sikkim.

trip to your needs within 24 hours."

And the UK firm Holiday Architects which launched in 2010 with a remit to avoid "standard off-the-shelf packages" talks of "listening to your travel aspirations and turning them into perfectly designed holidays". Far and Wild travel goes as far as to promise a "detailed itinerary in 24 hours". The Government, for its part, recently opened 137 mountain peaks for

While the highest number of 51 peaks have been opened to foreigners in Uttarakhand, 15 peaks of Jammu and Kashmir have also been included. The Minister of State for Culture and Tourism, Shri Prahlad Singh Patel, described it as a historic step towards promoting adventure tourism in the country. Earlier, he had spoken at the National Tourism Conference in New Delhi to stress the need for safety in adventure tourism, urging the States to exercise utmost caution when registering operators and ensuring that the adventure tourism guidelines are followed.

The 2018 guidelines are extensive and cover land, air and water-based activities which include mountaineering, trekking, bungee jumping, paragliding, kayaking, scuba diving, snorkelling, river rafting and many other sports.

Following the vision of the Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi of how he saw tourism in Ladakh developing, the Ministry of Tourism organised Adventure Tourism Training Courses in Trekking last year.

In what was the first of its kind in the region, the 10-day course trained local youth in various aspects of mountain trekking while giving them hands-on experience. More than 30 enrolled in the first batch which started on September 24, followed by three more batches.

The programmes began with a briefing and the participants cover places such as Spithuk,

Then, Zinchen, Rumbak, Stok la Base, Stock before returning to Leh. They are aimed at developing the basic skills of trekking among the young who can later use these skills to help them become guides or entrepreneurs. The Ministry earlier identified 17 sites in 12 clusters in the country for potential development as Iconic Tourism Sites.

They were listed as Taj Mahal & Fatehpur Sikri (Uttar Pradesh), Ajanta & Ellora (Maharashtra), Humayun's Tomb, Red Fort &

Qutub Minar (Delhi), Colva (Goa), Amer Fort (Rajasthan), Somnath & Dholavira (Gujarat), Khajuraho (Madhya Pradesh), Hampi (Karnataka), Mahabalipuram (Tamil Nadu), Kaziranga (Assam), Kumarakom (Kerala) and Mahabodhi Temple (Bihar).

The Ministry will be developing them in collaboration with the Central Ministries, State Governments and local bodies, in what is described as "a holistic manner", with a focus on issues concerning connectivity to the destination, better facilities and experiences for tourists at the site, skill development, the involvement of the local community, promotion and branding and bringing private investment.

A boost to independent travel are the predictions for growth in the car rental industry, something "still in an emergent phase in India, but expected to see continued strong growth," according to Euromonitor International's Car Rental (Destination) report.

"Growth will be driven by increasing demand amongst millennials," it reported, giving this as the reason: "Younger consumers often do not wish to invest in buying a car and are comfortable with the idea of a sharing economy."

HOTELS HOLD THE KEY

More of us are opting to 'staycation' which is good news for the domestic tourism market. But it adds to the pressure on India's hoteliers to keep up with growing demand for rooms and standards of excellence

Hotels have enjoyed a period of healthy growth in recent years, thanks in part to the building of new luxury hotels close to international airports and popular tourist destinations. Country-wide, many of the leading names, and not only those located in cities, have also benefited from the increasing prominence of travel culture among local and international guests.

A few of the most visited areas away from urban areas include places such as Agra, Jaipur and Goa, according to the recent findings of the strategic market research provider, Euromonitor.

Another factor is that local people are showing more interest in spending time relaxing in luxury hotels and resorts than travelling abroad. The term "staycation" - a vacation while staying at home or in a nearby hotel - is increasingly prominent among middle and high-income consumers, highlighting a growing interest in luxurious relaxation for busy individuals.

Other trends highlighted included the fact that the Indian travel market remains largely focused on domestic trips. An expanding young, urban middle class is largely serving to reinforce the importance of internal travel as time-starved millennials display a growing interest in weekend breaks and short trips with an emphasis on experience.

And while India remains a largely hotel-focused market, short term rentals, such as homestays, are increasingly gaining popularity. The accommodation listings of Airbnb is growing rapidly, as consumers increasingly look for novel experiences at an affordable an overwhelming offer from various consumer food service outlets. Given strong demand, location prices are expected to rise gradually, mostly within premium areas, offering more investment possibilities to chain restaurants at the expense of independent players.

As for food choices, Asian cuisines, especially Indian and Chinese, continued to be the most popular. Indian is preferred, as it is the local food of the country, though it varies from price. Delhi, for example, has witnessed continued growth in demand for hotels, driven by growing MICE and corporate bookings, in addition to improved spending capacity and the increased presence of budget hotels.

Indian Hotels remain a leading player in full-service restaurants. The company is one of the leading hoteliers in the country, being largely synonymous with luxury and fine dining. But in the coming years, restaurants will face stronger competition as there will be region to region, and consumers are more than happy to experiment with the different cuisines.

On a wider level, Delhi is witnessing rapid development in its tourism infrastructure and now boasts a world-class airport, a well-connected metro network and access to excellent road transport, all of which helps. Business travel dominates tourism to Delhi, which is emerging as one of the

PET-FRIENDLY HOTELS

Hotels tend to cater for all tastes and budgets, not to mention unusual clientele. Which is just as well when someone wants to bring an extra guest – their pet. Hoteliers have heard many times how guests couldn't bear to leave them behind and have equally heard it said: "They don't even need a bed."

Not everyone is equipped to accommodate them but there are plenty that are – and welcome them with open arms, from hotels to villas to homestays.

The Taj President in Mumbai, for example, offers a specially curated menu for pets that features minced lamb risotto and chicken steak, and even hosts a Canine High Tea, where dog owners mingle, play games and socialise with their pets. And Della Adventure and Resorts in Lonavala offers to provide an adventure marshall to look after their pet when they go out.

The Westin in the heart of Pune's Koregaon Park has a designated floor for guests with pets. They include beds and special pet food. The only requirement is that owners don't leave them unattended in the room.

In Goa, Arco Irish Boutique Homestay, a 200-year-old restored Goan villa will "welcome your pet with toys, a comfy bed and an ample amount of space to run around" and The Mandrem House, Goa with its mango orchards and butterfly gardens, even suggests: "This is one vacation your dog might just enjoy more than you."

preferred investment destinations in Asia, providing opportunities in almost all sectors, particularly information technology and tourism.

New low-cost flights operating to Delhi are also expected to drive the growth of domestic tourism to the city as a long break destination for its religious, historical and cultural attractions. And the newly developed Delhi Aero-city hospitality district, with over 3,200 hotel rooms, is expected to further boost the industry.

Sales continued to be dominated by ITC, the company behind such luxury brands as Fortune Hotels, WelcomHeritage and The Luxury Collection. Other reports suggest the hotel industry is expected to reach a value of INR 1,210.87 bn by the end of 2023, expanding at a compound annual growth rate of 13 per cent, thanks to the high arrival rate of foreign tourists and business delegates.

Hotels have spearheaded the growth of the hospitality industry, which has emerged as one of the primary sectors driving the economic growth of the country.

The upscale segment of the hotel industry has been described as "highly organised". The total number of keys – rooms in other words – in the top 11 key cities covered by CARE pharmaceuticals and FMCG, along with an upswing in MICE demand in major commercial hubs such as BKC, Powai, Goregaon and Airoli, CBD Belapur in Navi Mumbai and the promising growth in the Extended-Stay segment – which have favourably impacted Mumbai's hotel market. In terms of future supply, Mumbai is expecting an additional 4,000 rooms.

THE VALUE OF BUSINESS

Business travellers constituted about 85-90 per cent of the premium segment room demand in Bengaluru. BFSI and PSU companies mainly account for room demand in the central business district while Whitefield and Electronic city areas have demand from IT and ITeS companies. Hotels there witnessed a surge in marketwide RevPAR which surpassed the other major markets in the country. Driven mainly by robust growth in occupancies, the city's hotels also exhibited an annual increase of about 3.7 per cent in average rates. The fact that such a resilient market performance was accompanied by a 5.6 per cent growth in supply bodes well for the city that is expected to add approximately 5,700 rooms in a phased manner.

As for NCR, business travellers accounted for

HOTELSHAVE SPEARHEADED THE GROWTH OF THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY, ONE OF THE SECTORS DRIVING ECONOMIC GROWTH

Ratings is estimated at more than 92,500. Of this, more than half of the room inventory is concentrated in Mumbai, NCR and Bengaluru. The sharpest growth in occupancy rates came in the five-star sector followed by three-star hotels. Two-star hotels, on the other hand, witnessed a small decline.

Looking at the market on a regional basis, business travellers accounted for about 80 per cent of the total room demand in Mumbai, where the market has achieved record occupancy levels over the past few years and recording the second highest average room rate (Rs 7,740), consolidating its position as the best-performing hotel market in terms of RevPAR. This was primarily backed by strong demand from industries such as BFSI, about 70 per cent of the demand while the balance came from leisure. Hotels in Noida region mainly cater to demand from IT, BPO and consumer durables companies. The Aerocity district caters to demand from corporates, MICE activities and transient clients. Social events such as weddings also contributed to high room demand.

NCR is home to the largest branded hotel market in the country and is expected to witness an addition of about 4,400 rooms in the next five years. ■

A COUNTRY RUN BY RAIL

The nation's national railway system is responsible for running the fourth largest network of its kind in the world. And it is a task it carries out with panache, judging by the benefits it brings to tourism

Words | World Show Media staff
Photography | Shutterstock

Images of overcrowded trains with people sitting on the roof are a far cry from the reality of the experience that awaits tourists drawn by the knowledge that there really is no better way to see India. This is, after all, a nation moved by rail and it has built an incredible network to do it – the world's fourth biggest after the US, China and Russia.

And it's one comprising countless routes stretching to around 63,000 km and linking 6,800 stations. So, it's safe to assume that you can travel between any two cities or major towns by rail, although many of them will require an overnight journey, which itself, can be a delight.

It's no surprise then that Indian Railways, the national operator run by the Ministry of Railways, is one the world's biggest employers, with over 1.5 million staff running 20,000 passenger trains every day.

India by rail is a unique experience; the busy trains, the noise of the stations, the sight of the tea sellers on the platforms, not to mention the unrivalled opportunity to experience the country's sheer size, variety and colour in comfort. You only have to take one of the toy trains that wind their way through breath-taking Himalayan scenery to appreciate that.

All popular tourist circuits include train or coach services as part of tour packages which include accommodation, food and guided tours. IR's tourist offering includes luxury and semi-luxury trains, Buddhist special trains, Bharat Darshan trains and Aastha Circuit trains often hauled by steam. Locomotives such as the Palace on Wheels offer eight-night round trips from New Delhi to Rajasthan, taking in the likes of Jaipur, Chittaurgarh, Jodhpur and Agra. Launched in 1982, it became the pioneer of luxury Indian rail tours and has been refurbished over the years.

Another is the Fairy Queen, the world's oldest operating steam engine which hauls a luxury train from Delhi to Alwar – or even the Deccan Odyssey which covers popular destinations in Maharashtra and Goa.

A seven-night round-trip departing from Mumbai for example, will take in Gujarat and include visits to Palitana, with its 900 Jain temples, Sasan Gir National Park, home of the Asiatic lion, and the stunning Sun Temple at Modhera.

There are eight different classes on Indian Railways. Most visitors on overnight journeys choose the first or second class AC1/AC2 two-tier air-conditioned carriages while younger ones and backpackers opt for the more basic sleeper class (SL). Most middle-class travellers use the AC2 where berths, grouped in fours with leatherette-covered seats, can be reserved in advance. They also convert into curtained-off bunk beds for overnight journeys.

India's longest train journey is reputed to be the weekly Vivek Express, which starts at the tea-planting town of Dibrugarh in the far North East on Saturdays and arrives at Kanyakumari at the southern tip the following Wednesday. It's an epic 82-hour

DID YOU KNOW...?

The platform at Gorakhpur Railway Station in Uttar Pradesh is the world's longest, measuring 1,366 metres, a record previously held by the 1,072-metre Kharagpur station in West Bengal. The one with the longest name, is Venkatanarasimharajuvaripeta in Andhra Pradesh. It's 29 letters long but, given that locals usually add the prefix 'Sri', it's usually three letters longer.

The shortest, on the other hand, is Ib station in Odisha. It's named after the Ib river, a tributary of Mahanadi.

Bholu the guard elephant has been the mascot of the Indian Railways since its 150th anniversary in 2002. Bholu holds a signal lamp with a green light to symbolise movement and assure passengers they travel without fear.

The National Railway Museum in Delhi is the most visited museum in India - and the largest of its kind in Asia - attracting tourists in their millions. The Fairy Queen remains one of its main attractions.

There are seven others dotted around the country: in Pune, Kanpur, Mysore, Kolkata, Chennai, Ghum and Tiruchirappalli. The Maharaja's Express is the most expensive luxury train in India and among the most expensive of its kind in the whole of Asia.

Over the course of eight days, it takes guests over some of the most prominent tourist destinations in the country, including the Taj Mahal, the Khajuraho temples, Ranthambhore, Fatehpur Sikri and the bathing Ghats of Varanasi.

heat. It gently covers 55 miles in seven hours, weaving through village streets and climbing to more than 7,000 feet, with panoramic views.

HISTORY AND HERITAGE

The Konkan Railway links the bustle of Mumbai with the calm of Goa and carries on south towards Kerala, hugging the west coast, parallel to the Arabian Sea in a 450-mile journey that crosses 2,000 bridges, including India's highest viaduct.

The Kangra Valley Railway is known for being one of the cheapest ways to experience the sheer beauty of the northern Indian landscapes. A day's trip will cover 100 miles, begin near Pathankot and end at Joginder Nagar. You'll get to mingle with locals, many of whom will be hopping on and off between the 33 stops as it passes tea gardens and orange groves before rumbling into the shadows of glistening mountains. The Desert train, on a line from Jodhpur to Jaisalmer, links two of Rajasthan's most popular destinations – both historic cities with important forts and atmospheric winding alleys.

The six-hour morning journey is an alternative desert safari, replacing traditional camel trains with trains. The broad expanses of sand offer glimpses of wildlife and scattered settlements.

The train starts the previous evening in Delhi and arrives at Jaipur, the third Rajasthani "J", just before midnight.

India's first-ever train ran from Red Hills to the Chintadripet bridge in Madras in 1837. It was called the Red Hill Railway and was built by the irrigation engineer and general, Arthur Cotton, to carry granite to road construction sites.

It took three steam locomotives to haul the country's first passenger train 17 years later in April 1954. The trio, named Sahib, Sindh and Sultan, managed to carry 400 people in 14 carriages a mere 34 kilometres from India's first station, Bori Bunder in Mumbai, to Thane.

Eastern India's first passenger train managed a 39km stretch from Howrah, near Kolkata, to Hoogly a few months later and, two years after that, the first out of South India made the 97km trip from Royapuram-Veyasarapady in Madras to Wallajah Road, Arcot. Electric trains did not arrive until 1925 when, on February 3, the first

This history lives on today in the shape of the Fairy Queen, the world's oldest working locomotive still in use.

Dating back to 1855, it is listed in the Guinness Book of Records as the world's oldest steam locomotive still in regular service. It was given heritage status in 1972 by the Indian government, making it officially a national treasure.

In February last year, interim finance minister Piyush Goyal told Parliament in a speech highlighting sharply accelerated development of highways, ports and waterways, that the Indian Railways had become much safer and financially more efficient. Having made the highest ever capital-expenditure allocation of Rs 1.58 lakh crore for the railways, he predicted that the railways' operating ratio — a measure of expenditure against revenue — was expected to improve from 98.4 per cent in 2017-18 to 96.2 per cent in 2018-19 and to 95 per cent in 2019-20.

REFLECTIONS ON RAILS

Stressing that the year marked the safest in the railways' history, Mr Goyal said that the government had made steep progress in its plans to eliminate unmanned level crossings, which have historically been a major cause of accidents.

One person who knows more than most about the rail network is the writer Monisha Rajesh who travelled the length and breadth of the country via Indian Railways to research her first book, Around India in 80 Trains.

The book was published in January 2019 and detailed a journey of 45,000 miles and gave some vivid insights into a mode of travelling unique to India.

She reflected on her 3.5-hour trip aboard the Goa Express from Vasco da Gama to Londa in Karnataka: "Keep your eyes peeled for waterfalls in the distance, which increase as the trees thin and the view turns to deep valleys and peaks.

"On the approach to Londa the sun should just be setting which gives the strange red clay surroundings an ominous glow." She recalled a rather longer 16-hour journey from New Jalpaiguri (West Bengal), to Ledo (Assam) via

Tinsukia aboard the Dibrugarh Rajdhani Express:

"As night falls, the train sweeps past the Brahmaputra river on the approach to Guwahati and crawls through the city's slums. Hop off the steps and you'll land in someone's cooking.

"From Tinsukia, the morning passenger train blasts through awe-inspiring landscape before arriving at the end of the track having squeezed past the backs of people's houses so closely you can see what they're eating for breakfast."

TOURISM AFLOAT

The cruise market is growing in terms of passenger numbers, locations and the sheer diversity of the holidays available. All of which spells massive potential for a country with so much to offer

Words | World Show Media staff
Photography | Shutterstock

With more than 30 million people taking to the decks of luxury liners around the world, the cruise industry could lay claim to being the tourism industry's largest sector. And given India's vast coastlines, amazing scenery, emerald forests, stunning hill stations, many of them within short distances of its ports, the market has enormous potential.

Modern ships, equipped as they are as floating resorts of the highest calibre, are often testimony to the well-known saying: Sometimes, the journey matters more than the destination. The market in India is one of forward thinking. Where once there were question marks over the lack of ports able to accommodate luxury liners, now more and more operators have started their services in India.

There are currently many options, including routes linking India and the Maldives, and many domestic ones such as Mumbai and Goa. And it's set to grow, thanks, in part, to the steps taken by the Indian government to promote the industry; easing immigration regulations for ship-board tourists and even issuing e-visas for certain types of visit and introducing a task force to look at port regulations and customs formalities.

This is all backed by major development plans at the leading ports of Mumbai, Goa, New Mangalore, Chennai, and Cochin and embraces new terminals, passenger lounges, duty-free shops and foreign exchange counters, all of which have encouraged several lines to consider new cruise packages in India. And all of which further underlines the obvious: India is tailor-made for cruising. The richness of its colours, tastes, sounds and architecture, not to mention its history and religions, are exotically distinct and guaranteed to enthrall anyone stepping down a gangplank.

One market that has historically thrived is river tourism. Luxury riverboats are as commonplace on the Ganges, a place famous for its views of sites of religious pilgrimage and verdant forestry, as the houseboats on the backwaters of Alleppey in Kerala, which offer splendid views of the rice paddy fields which attract large numbers from all over the world.

In a country known for its bustling way of life, it's a stark contrast to seek out the vast swathes of it that remain almost untouched by tourism and, in some cases, are only accessible by boat. And given that so much of India's rural life depends on rivers, settlements tend to congregate around the banks, even in places as busy and chaotic as Calcutta. Cruising along the river is the only way to experience the bustle of the ghats and city industries, as well as the sort of farmlands where ploughs are still pulled by ox and local temples honour village deities.

Several ships travel the Lakshadweep archipelago of the Laccadive Sea where guests can see the local inhabitants engaged in coir-making, coconut picking and fishing - or visit uninhabited islands or those such as Pitti which serves as a bird sanctuary or even go ashore for turtle or coral reef walking.

Courting couples flock to Goa, one of the oldest and most popular cruise destinations, if only for a chance to see the golden sunsets along the coastlines as they make their way into the luminous waters of the River Mandovi.

The more adventurous often opt for a tour of the mangroves of Sunderbans on the beguiling waters of Meghna, Padma and Brahmaputra. It also means they are perfectly placed to visit world's largest Royal Bengal tiger reserves.

Guests can watch an enriching folk theatre performance by villagers and stroll through the exotic forests. They also get to see the culture of the village and pay a visit to the local fish market. But a notable feature is the way in which the water changes colour at each creek, from dull, muddy hues to bright emerald blues.

Then there's "Venice of the East", or to be more precise, the various canals that form the Alleppey waters of Kerala, known for the stunning way they reflect the various shades of sunset against the backdrop of swaying coconut palms on the headlands. And Assam's mighty Brahmaputra river is bordered on either side by a languid landscape of farmland and tea plantations stretching out to the Himalayan foothills. Alongside its natural diversity, Assam is noted as a home to a fusion of different cultures and heritages – Chinese, Tibetan, Bangladeshi and Indian.

The best time to enjoy a river cruise there is from November to April, when Kaziranga National Park is open, the monsoon rains have ended, and the temperatures are moderate and comfortable.

LONG HAUL DEMAND GROWS

The Indian Cruising market has grown significantly in the past ten years according to the premium international line, Princess Cruises, which has witnessed sustainable growth with constant demand for mid and long-haul trips.

Nishith Saxena, founder of Cruise Professionals and a representative of Princess

'CRUISE TOURISM IS PROBABLY ONE OF THE ONLY SEGMENTS IN TRAVEL WHICH HAS DEMONSTRATED CONSISTENT GROWTH'

Cruises in India, is on record as saying: "Cruise tourism is probably one of the only segments in travel which has demonstrated consistent growth over the past two decades and 2019 was no different. Princess Cruises has had sustainable growth in India over the past decade and, in 2019, despite the general elections, which coincided with the summer vacations and affected the travel plans of families, we saw a surge of booking and conversions soon after the election results were declared."

Even July and August, traditionally off-season for long-haul destinations, were busy. In the past couple of years, typical Indian cruise travellers selected shorter trips from mostly the Asian and European homeports. But these days they are looking for unique itineraries. Saxena added: "Other than the short-haul popular cruising destinations like Singapore and Dubai, there is a growing demand for mid and long-haul destinations like Japan, Australia, Norway, Panama Canal and Antarctica.

"We strongly feel that over the next five years, while the traditional popular destinations like Alaska, Bahamas, Caribbean, and Mediterranean will continue to grow, there will be fast-paced growth in the newer cruising destinations inspired by a rich mix of on-board premium cruising experiences plus itineraries with varied and exotic port contents."

In 2018, India was Singapore's top overseas source market for cruise travellers. A 27 per cent increase over the previous year saw 160,000 Indian cruise holidaymakers travel out of Singapore terminals. In an effort to grow the segment, the Singapore Tourism Board (STB) organised a forum with the theme "Growing Cruise Connections, Achieving Together!" in New Delhi. One interesting highlight was the average age of passengers. It's generally 46.7, and 45.4

in Asia. But in India, it is a mere 37. ■

MAKING THE MOST OF RIVERS AND BACKWATERS

The waterways are a draw in many other ways. Thousands flock to Rishikesh for river rafting on the Ganges rapids all year, apart from the Monsoon season. It's become a synonym for adventure sport in Uttarakhand and beyond and draws such a wide range of interest because the mighty and whimsical river offers four stretches able to accommodate everyone from beginners to experts.

For years, Ashtamudi lake was as sleepy as the backwaters that feed into it. Nowadays, it's a busy tourist destination with plush resorts around its shores and brackish lagoons, making it one of the most visited in the state of Kerala.

The Kerala backwaters lie parallel to the Malabar Coast forming part of a labyrinthine 900-kilometre system of interconnected canals and rivers. The lake itself, which was once known for its unique ecosystem and evergreen coconut groves, is now equally famous as a host to backwater cruises, via traditional Kettuvallams.

UNPARALLELED DIVERSITY

Karnataka is many things: a blend of heritage, culture, nature, beaches and wildlife, not to mention magical hill stations, spectacular waterfalls and, of course, pilgrimage centres

Words | World Show Media staff

It is no wonder Karnataka has such a strong reputation as a tourism centre. Not only is it a State with the likes of Bangalore and Mysore within its boundaries, its 320km coastline is dotted with unspoilt beaches. It's come a long way since the days when it was assumed that its key destinations were hard to reach, and lacked facilities. Bangalore, in particular, is well connected to most important Indian cities as well as the rest of the world. The road network has improved so much, Karnataka now boasts of some of the best roads in the country.

It has been called the "Cradle of Stone Architecture" thanks to magnificent World Heritage Sites such as Hampi and Pattadakal, the exquisite temples at Belur, Halebeedu, and Somnathpur. Its forests and wildlife are her priceless natural heritage. The State boasts some of the largest jungle tracts south of the Vindhayas.

Karnataka also has a number of romantic hill stations in sandalwood forests, coffee plantations, waterfalls and trekking trails. Nestled in the Western Ghats, these hill stations present spectacular views of dense forests, deep valleys and magnificent sunsets. Karnataka is also home to numerous big and small waterfalls, set amidst sylvan surroundings.

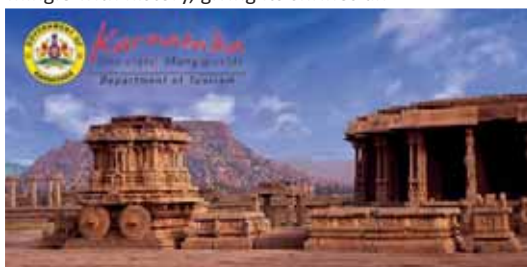

A wide range of songs and dances revolve around hunting and food gathering. The state's rich and vibrant culture is reflected in varied art forms: Yakshagana, puppetry or Bombe Aata, Bhootha Aradhane, Krishna Parijatha, Nagamandala and the Kunithas.

It's also as much famed for its shrines, mosques, churches, and Jain basadis, as it is for its natural and scenic splendours. These architectural wonders hold the key to the state's spiritual and historical past. Legends mingle with history, giving its shrines an evocative ambience. The government-owned Jungle Lodges and Resorts was formed to promote wildlife destinations and ensure visitors enjoy a unique experience. Today, with over 20 properties, JLR is the leading chain of resorts offering wildlife, eco and adventure tourism and various outdoor activities like trekking, camping, white water rafting.
